

The Suspects

Peyton Fletcher

I may look like a diamond, but I cut like a knife

An original cast member, Peyton is the quintessential queen of the city's high society. Married to realtor to the stars, Clay Fletcher, Peyton's world is a dazzling whirlwind of lavish parties, and she reigns supreme. The only thing that Peyton loves more than throwing parties is throwing shade. With a flair for drama and a wardrobe to envy, Peyton navigates the glittering social scene with a martini in one hand and a razor-sharp wit in the other.

Shan Vernon

My kicks are high, but my standards are higher

One of the more level-headed ladies on The Really Desperate Housewives, Shan is an entrepreneur, a former competitive kickboxer and owns a kickboxing fitness company with franchises all over North America and Europe. Since Season 2 of The Really Desperate Housewives, she has been considered the voice of reason among the ladies. Whenever drama gets stirred up, Shan tends to mother the other ladies a bit, scolding their bad behaviour when necessary. Her ambition has afforded her extraordinary wealth, and she seems to be jetting off to a mind-blowing location monthly. A born fighter, Shan has dedicated her life to empowering women physically.

Gloria Glass

Giving back never looked so good

The oldest sister of Joelle Glass, Gloria has been on The Really Desperate Housewives for three of the four seasons, and is excited to be back for Season 5. The Glass sisters are Gloria, who is the oldest, and the twins. Gloria is three years older than her younger sisters, but all three have remained close throughout their lives. The Glass family owns an NBA team, and Gloria is an entrepreneur in her own right, but is more well-known for her philanthropic endeavours. Each year, Gloria's charity fundraisers are the hottest parties of the year, and in just five years she has raised over $100 Million for the charities she supports. Gloria is one of the most extravagant and flashy of the housewives though, and believes that one can be charitable while still enjoying the finer things in life.

Jaymi Shawe

From rags to riches, and ready to shine

Jaymi is the newest cast member of The Really Desperate Housewives. A true rags-to-riches story, Jaymi has earned her place among the city's elite because of a lucky lottery win. Her luck doubled when she invested a lot of her winnings in Bitcoin when it was low, and then sold it all November 7, 2021. While some have speculated that she had insider information, Jaymi insists she has just always been a very lucky person. Regardless, as a new cast member for Season 5, dedicated viewers will be glued to their televisions to see if the other housewives accept Jaymi, and what drama she might bring to the already-spicy dynamic of The Really Desperate Housewives. Jaymi never goes anywhere without her little dog, Pirate, whose collar is worth more than most people's houses.

Stacey Flint

Grace and kindness never go out of style

One of the original cast members, Stacey is one of the most loved RDHWs, having been voted the favourite housewife four seasons in a row. Stacey is the peacemaker of the group, and a true philanthropist. During season three, Stacey started her own foundation to help underprivileged dogs, called "Pawsitive". Stacey recently returned from a trip to the Himalayas, where she spent six weeks meditating with the Buddhist Monks. Cuttings from her award-winning roses are sent to her friends via courier weekly to brighten up their homes. She has also been voted the most beautiful housewife for four straight seasons. Stacey is married to international businessman Noel Flint, is never seen without her best friend, her tiny dog named Poachie.

Indy Hudson

Pepper's in my purse, and luxury's in my blood

Fans of The Really Desperate Housewives were thrilled when Indy was announced to be joining the cast for Season 4. Cousin of fan-favourite Peyton, Indy is a socialite and famous in her own right, if for nothing else than causing drama. This only daughter of a hotel magnate, Indy is at all the hottest parties in the hottest designer dresses, but wouldn't think of leaving home without her dog, Pepper, in her purse.

Liza Gray

My soap opera days may be over, but my saga continues

Cast member of The Really Desperate Housewives since Season 3, Liza Gray is no stranger to television. For two decades she was one of the stars of the soap opera, Angel Falls, playing the diabolical 'Jenessa' on the series. Since being let go from the show, she now claims she will do anything to make a buck, including the infamous hemorrhoid cream commercial that the rest of the cast can't seem to stop talking about. Now that she's an official "housewife", Liza is enjoying her time on the show, and is excited to show a side of her that isn't the evil character she played on Angel Falls, and that her life centres around the most important thing in her life: her family.

Madge Getty

In a world of phonies, I'm a diamond in the rough

Wife of international businessman Samson Getty, Madge is the quintessential high-end housewife. Living a life of luxury for over 20 years, Madge spends her days organizing social functions, not to mention the vast number of people who work at her mansion, The Getty Estate. Madge spends her free time shopping, getting manicures and lunching at her exclusive social club, where the show's cameras are not allowed. Madge tries to act as a peace keeper with the housewives, but since joining the show in Season 1, she has had her fair share of tabloid-worthy feuds. She never goes anywhere without her little dog, Gigster.

Sugar Kohl

Some may call me a Gold Digger, but I'm really the Gold Standard

A former cast member of The Really Desperate Housewives, Sugar is a beauty queen who, at the age of 22 married Gandor Preat, an oil tycoon much older than Sugar. Since, she has lived a life of total luxury with no apologies, even when accused of being a gold-digger. She laughs the accusations off and even admits it... she jokes that the first thing that attracted her to Gandor was the size of his mansion. Sugar, along with her little dog, Spice, was a cast member of The Really Desperate Housewives for seasons 2, 3 and 4. She left the show because she was offered her own spin-off show, Sugar and Spice, which follows Sugar and her dog around as they attend glamorous parties, go on expensive vacations and traverse the drama that comes with the life of a wealthy housewife!

Laney Swift

Gossip and drama? Just lyrics for my next hit

Laney is new wife of Glen Swift, ex-husband of former Really Desperate Housewives cast member, Caroline, whose sudden disappearance between season 4 and 5 has her fans and friends deeply concerned. Regardless, when the show reached out to Laney to take the open spot on the cast, she jumped at the chance. Since getting together with Caroline's ex, she has had no end of bad publicity, being called a home wrecker and worse. But as a pop singer in her own right, Laney wants to make sure she sets the record straight about who she is, and who she isn't. She knows she will have her work cut out for her though, trying to win over the rest of the women on The Really Desperate Housewives, but Laney is confident that if they give her a chance, they will quickly adopt her as one of their own.

Philipa Gant

Stardom may fade, but my shine is eternal

Twin sister of the victim, Joelle, Philipa is an ex-actress whose wealth was amassed thanks largely to the royalties from the multitude of kids movies the twins starred in when they were young. Having been cast with Joelle at just six months old for a sitcom that became a wild success, Philipa seemed to have her career set. But at sixteen years old, she and Joelle both took a step back from acting to pursue other interests. Philipa started her own line of skin care, called Luminare, and business is booming! Philipa is not a cast member of The Really Desperate Housewives, but is considered a "Friend of the Housewives", and reportedly receives $15,000 for each appearance she makes on The Really Desperate Housewives.
